New build PCT doctors Surgery and NHS Clinic

JLA were appointed as Architects and Contract Administrators by Haven Health Developments. The design evolved in close consultation with the local PCT surgery team, and featured a central atrium administration core, flanked by a two main corridors serving the consulting and examination rooms.

The curved Aluminium Glazed frontage offered a bright and welcoming environment to the reception and waiting area, where the gallery and glazing added vistas and space. The design incorporated passive design principles to make the best possible use of orientation, and daylight, and to reduce the overall running costs of the building. The construction, with its low pitch slate tiled roof and facing brick created a traditional building set in an open landscape.

The main two-storey central core serves as administration and reception area for the trust, whilst the two single storey wings provide facilities for the practitioners on the left and the Health Care Trust on the right.
